What is FloSports?

FloSports is an OTT, direct to consumer sports media company based in Austin, Texas. FloSports has a network of 20+ sites focused on live and on-demand event coverage, original content, breaking news, and more. Each site has free and premium content. Premium content can be accessed via PRO subscriptions, which gives fans access to the entire FloSports network. For more information you can visit FloSports.tv and follow FloSports on Twitter, Facebook, Instagram, YouTube, or LinkedIn for additional information.

What does it cost?

CAA fans will have access to a subscription rate of $12.50/month via FloSports.tv/CAA beginning in July 2019.

Who negotiated the deal?

This was a conference wide agreement made through the CAA. It begins this year and runs for four years through the 2022-23 season.

How many games will FloSports provide live and on-demand coverage for?

Annually, FloSports will air a minimum of 50 football games exclusively. In addition, FloSports will air a minimum of 90 men's basketball games, 50 women's basketball games exclusively and around 110 select events from around the conference.

Will games still be on regular TV?

As in years past, we will work with our local and regional broadcast partners to have a select number of games shown on linear TV. Where can I watch the remainder of games not on FloSports or regular TV? Delaware Athletics will continue to work with local linear TV partners to broadcast games around the region, as well as games continuing to be streamed on BlueHens.com
